AUTOS COLLIDE ON A CROSSING

Roscoe Ward and Mr. and Mrs. James McDaniel in Accident North of the City Today.

BOTH CARS BADLY DAMAGED

Mrs. McDaniel is Thrown Over Windshield But is Not Badly Hurt—Machine in Ditch.

A five passenger touring car owned and driven by James McDaniel, living northwest of Rushville and a runabout driven by Roscoe Ward brushed each other on the L. E. & W. crossing two miles north of the city this morning and caused considerable damage to the machines, but no one was badly hurt.

After the collision, the McDaniel car darted to the left and ran, nose first, down the embankment at the east side of the road. The steering wheel held Mr. McDaniel in the car, but Mrs. McDaniel, who was by his side in the front seat, was thrown up over the windshield. Mr. McDaniel caught her body and prevented her from being thrown out of the machine.

"It was very fortunate," said Mr. McDaniel this morning after the cars had been hauled to Rushville, "that we had just put the top section of the windshield down or else Mrs. McDaniel would likely have run her arms through the glass and been seriously hurt. Shortly before reaching the railroad crossing I had suggested that we put the top section of the windshield down because it would be cooler."

As it was, Mrs. McDaniel broke the glass in the windshield when she struck it. She complained of a slight pain in her left side, but she did not think the injury would result in anything serious and did not consult a physician.

According to Mr. McDaniel's version of the accident, his touring car was up on the crossing before Ward's. He said that he supposed, since the crossing was not wide enough for two cars to cross on it, Mr. Ward would wait south of the crossing where there was room for the two automobiles to pass.

Instead of waiting, Mr. McDaniel says, Ward shot his machine ahead and they met just as the McDaniel machine was about clear of the crossing. Mr. McDaniel declares that young Ward was running at least fifteen miles an hour.

Roscoe Ward, who is a son of John Ward of this city, says that as it appeared to him, they were both about an equal distance from the railroad crossing and they both tried to get there first. Instead, he says, they arrived at the same time and the collision resulted. Mr. Ward estimated that his runabout was running from twelve to fifteen miles an hour and that McDaniel's car was going about the same rate of speed.

Both cars were badly damaged. The frame of the McDaniel automobile was sprung by the impact. If anything, the lighter car got out with the least amount of damage. The left front wheel of the touring car was bent and the front axle badly bent. The left light was broken and the radiator badly bent. The front fender was bent and a hole was punched through a new tire that was carried on the fender.

The left front wheel of the runabout was torn off and the axle was twisted. The steering rod was bent and twisted and the left fender was badly bent.

After the cars hit, Mr. Ward was able to keep his light car in the road. It went several feet before it stopped.

HE IS ONE OF EXAMINERS

The Rev. W. H. Wylie Attends M. E. Itinerant School.

The Rev. W. H. Wylie, pastor of the St. Paul M. E. church, this week is acting as one of the board of examiners of the itinerant school of the M. E. Indiana conference. The board is in session at Elkhorn, Indiana. The board of twelve ministers passes on the examination papers of young ministers applying for admission to the conference. If the applicants pass, they are recommended by the board for admission. The conference then decides whether they shall be admitted. The conference meets here September 16 to 22.

GOV. RALSTON IS TO MAKE ADDRESS

To be Principal Speaker at Corner Stone Laying in Arlington Sunday.

PROGRAM TO BE INTERESTING

Governor Samuel M. Ralston is scheduled to deliver the principal address at the corner stone laying of the Methodist Episcopal church in Arlington next Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. Judge John D. Megee of this city will introduce Governor Ralston. A very delightful program has been arranged including musical numbers.

It will be remembered that the M. E. church was burned down several months ago and the congregation immediately started work on the new building. Quite a number from this city will attend the services Sunday.

HOPE TO REBUILD BEFORE WINTER

Phoenix Masonic Temple Association Will Most Probably Erect a New Building.

STOCKHOLDERS BEING SEEN

Before the close of the day, it was expected that all of the stockholders in the Phoenix Masonic Temple association would have signed up for the rebuilding of the Masonic block. James E. Watson, president of the association, was working on the project today and considering stockholders for places on the building committee.

It is hoped by the stockholders that the building can be re-erected this fall before bad weather begins. For this reason a special effort was made today to see all of the stockholders. It was not believed that any of the stockholders would refuse to enter into the agreement to rebuild.

It is thought that in case another building is erected on the site of the one destroyed by fire, and there seems to be no doubt, but that there will, the heating plant will be placed in the basement. The plant to the old building was in another building on the back end of the lot.

S. S. PICNIC.

More than fifty attended the United Presbyterian Sabbath school picnic in Link's grove east of the city today. A big dinner was served and games were arranged for all of the little folks.

LOCAL KNIGHTS IN GOOD QUARTERS

Rushville Uniform Rank Gets Good Location at Two-State Encampment at Danville, Ill.

TRAVEL IN 5 AUTOMOBILES

Travel is Without Serious Accident, Barring Damage Done to Floyd Hogsett's Pocket Knife.

Camp Omo-Gaither, Danville, Ill., August 18. The two-states encampment of the Uniform Rank, Knights of Pythias, formerly opened here today. It rained all morning, but cleared off in the afternoon and the program was carried out in full.

The Rushville company put on their uniforms this afternoon for the first time and participated in the opening exercises, which consisted of the turning over of the camp and the keys of the city, and an address by Governor Edwin F. Dunne of Illinois. In fact, the Rushville company got a "work out" the first day in camp. Besides lining up for the governor, the local boys took part in the regimental parade of the Third Indiana Regiment at 5:30 o'clock.

Mayor Sewan was out of the city and in his absence, John Harrison, editor of the Commercial-News, spoke. Mr. Harrison turned the keys of the city over to the Knights and tonight they surely own the place. Gov. Dunne was followed by Union B. Hunt, Past Supreme Representative of Indiana, and who is at present at the head of the insurance department of the order.

One of the interesting figures at the encampment is Major-General Arthur Stobart, who arrived this afternoon from Milwaukee. Major Stobart was met at the train by General Trabue and taken to camp by Will Feudner. Maj. Stobart is the commander of the Uniform Rank in the United States and Canada.

The local company was very much surprised to hear of the death of Frank Cowing, who was a K. of P. and a member of the Uniform Rank. The company sent condolence to the family. Mr. Cowing was with the Rushville company at the last encampment which was held in Lafayette. The company will stand at attention "uncovered" for five minutes during the funeral hour Wednesday morning.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) will be the big day of the encampment. The great parade will take place in the afternoon. With no less than nine bands in line the line of parade will include the following:

Platoon of Police.

Major General Arthur Stobart and Staff.

Brigadier General William B. Gray and Staff.

Indiana Brigade.

Colonel John P. Bertoni and Staff.

Illinois Brigade.

The Rushville boys are having one big time and the camp is ideal. On the way here a kitten was picked up near Crawfordsville and is the camp mascot. The kitten is the friend of everyone, and has been named Omo, after the chancellor commander of Illinois.

Ivy Company, No. 35 U. R. K. of P., led by General Samuel Trabue, of the staff of Major General Stobart, commanding the Uniform Rank of the United States and Canada, arrived here Sunday afternoon shortly after four o'clock.

The trip was made from Rushville without serious accident although Sam Trabue delayed the "bunch" about two hours with tire trouble. The trip was made in the machines

JOHN J. KEEGAN ATTACKS I. & C.

Declares in Speech That "Fatal" Accident Happened With "Green" Motorman on Duty.

MEETS WITH TRACTION UNION

Motorman in Employee of Traction Company Seven Years and Accident Was Not Fatal.

The trade union men of Indianapolis pledged their support to the interurban trainmen of Indiana at a meeting in Indianapolis last night. The meeting was featured by a fiery speech by John J. Keegan of Indianapolis, a member of the lower house of the last legislature.

Keegan declared that a fatal accident on the Shelbyville division of the Indianapolis & Cincinnati traction line last Saturday was due to the employment of a "green" man as motorman in the place of a man who had been discharged for joining the union. The man discharged was Edward Jordan, who has been elected president of the Indiana organization of traction trainmen.

The "green" man who Keegan referred to was Earl Moore, who has been a trainman on the I. & C. for seven years. Ever since the state railroad commission issued an order that motormen should have been in the employ of the road as trainmen for at least a year, the I. & C. and other Indiana interurban lines have arranged for conductors to act as motormen to prepare for emergencies.

Although Earl Moore is a conductor he has been acting as motorman on many occasions for the last two years, according to I. & C. officials. Even before Jordan was discharged last week, the officials say, Moore had been acting as a motorman and he happened to be on Jordan's run last Saturday.

I. & C. officials are at a loss to understand why such news as this should be given out. The report that Moore was a "green" man was in a dispatch sent from Shelbyville to the Indianapolis News Saturday I. & C. officials do not like to believe that Jordan's friends spread this sort of report in the spirit of "getting even" with the I. & C. for discharging Jordan.

Furthermore, they point out, no one of the accidents Saturday were fatal, except for the horse which was backed in the path of the car by Mrs. Henry Rahe, who became excited. According to report from the physician to the claim agent, Charles Carey, whose automobile was hit by the car at Fairland, did not even sustain a broken bone. The machine was demolished and Carey's arm, shoulder and head on his left side were hurt. He was able to crawl from under the auto and walk to a doctor's office.

A committee which was appointed at the meeting last night expected today to call on the Public Service Commission to urge a strict enforcement of a rule prohibiting the employment by the traction companies of men as motormen or conductors who have not had a year's previous experience in interurban or steam railroad train service. The committee is composed of John J. Keegan, Frank Hawley, Fred Saylor, George Haines and Albert Lowry.

That a strike will follow a refusal of the companies to recognize the union and grant its demands or submit the differences to arbitration was asserted by Resin Orr, international treasurer of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees, who is acting as organizer, according to the Indianapolis

THIEF TO BE ARRAIGNED

Ed Stanley Will be Called Before Henry Circuit Court Saturday.

Ed Stanley, the employee of the Hagenbeck-Wallace shows who was arrested here on information from Newcastle, is in jail in Newcastle and will be arraigned in Henry circuit court Saturday, or the first day that court is held. The two automobile tires which he attempted to sell here have been identified by W. C. Bond and Thomas Loer, from whom they were stolen. The tires were stolen from the back of the machine.

ILL FATE PURSUES JAMES FRAZEE

Former Rushville Man Sustains Second Heavy Loss From Fire Within Year Near Noblesville.

THIS TIME HIS BARN BURNS

Sel Webb today received word from his brother-in-law, James Frazee, that his barn a half mile west of Noblesville had been burned down yesterday afternoon. It is presumed that it was hit by lightning. Three horses were burned up and three others were so badly injured that they will have to be killed. The barn was full of hay, corn and other grain, enough feed for a year. Mr. Frazee was away from home when the barn burned. The building and contents was an entire loss, with little insurance.

Mr. Frazee was born and reared in Rushville. He was the son of the late Captain Frazee who lived on the Indianapolis pike. Misfortune seems to pursue Mr. Frazee. Last fall his rendering factory, one of the best in Indiana, burned and just lately he finished rebuilding it.

STILL BELIEVES IN POWER OF SUN

Weather Man Predicts Fair Weather and Continued Warm Today—

Cool Night.

TEMPERATURE IS UP TODAY

Today the weather man was still a believer in the power of the sun, and his prediction was for fair weather. A high barometrical pressure, which is hovering over the upper lake region, was the cause of a drop in the local temperature, and today the atmosphere was well within the bounds of comfort. At 7 o'clock the temperature was 73 degrees, compared with 78 degrees at the same time on Monday.

The temperature had risen to ninety degrees by noon, however. The temperatures in the state Monday were up in the nineties and the weather official was of the opinion that the cooler weather would not remain long. Several stations reported good rains today. French Lick had a precipitation of .47 inches; Columbus, .65 inches and Lafayette, .47 inches.

COUNCIL MEETS TONIGHT.

The regular session of the city council will be held tonight. The investigation of the Masonic block fire will be concluded with the testimony of Henry Joyce, fireman at the plant, and Frank Sullivan, nightwatchman.

HARRY THAW IS HELD IN CANADA

Man Arrested in Coaticook, Quebec, Today Asserts he is Slayer of Stanford White.

IS DRIVEN INTO TOWN EARLY

He Declares That Officials Have no Right to Hold or Extradite Him.

Coaticook, Que., August 19.—Harry Thaw, or a man posing as the slayer of Stanford White, was arrested here today and is being held awaiting instructions from the government at Ottawa.

The man drove into town at 2 o'clock this morning, having engaged a farmer to bring him from Hereford, where he left a Maine Central train last night. He declares that he is the man who escaped from Matewan, N. Y., last Sunday and says that the officials can not hold him.

Thaw was arrested by local officers at the request of Sheriff B. H. Kelsey of Colebrook, N. H., who saw Thaw on a train last night and later followed him here in an automobile. Though not knowing what they can do with their prisoner, his captors are interested in the $500 reward, which has been offered for the apprehension, and they will hold him until his release is ordered or other disposition made of him by the government.

Thaw freely admitted his identity, but would not discuss his movements since Sunday morning except to say that he took a train "east of Boston." He said that he was making for the coast and planned to sail for Europe. He did not appear greatly disturbed by his detention here, declaring that he had committed no crime, he could not be extradited.

In company with two men, one heavy built and the other slight, and both smooth shaven, Thaw, according to the police, came over the Maine Central from some point south of Colebrook, N. H., last night. This branch of the road extends to Portland, Me.

The two companions of the prisoner have been detained by the police

PLOT BEGINNING TO UNFOLD ITSELF

The Men Who Aided Thaw's Escape Are Known.

WARRANTS OUT FOR THEM

New York Authorities Believe They Will Have No Trouble in Locating the Men Who Arranged For Millionaire Lunatic to Give Leg Bail, and That They Soon Will Have Thaw Himself Back Safely in Matteawan.

New York, Aug. 19.—The most definite information that has reached New York regarding Harry Thaw bore on his intentions rather than his whereabouts. His mother, at the Hotel Gotham, got a scrawled note saying that he was going to take a rest before going to their country home in Cresson, Pa. Roger O'Meara, the Thaw detective, said in Pittsburgh that Thaw would be home in forty-eight hours.

Matteawan, N. Y., Aug. 19.—Harry K. Thaw is still free. Although word of his walkout from the hospital for the criminal insane here Sunday morning has gone to every city, town and hamlet in the United States, the county and hospital authorities here have not received any definite word that either Thaw, the two autos in which he made his escape, or any of the five men who aided have been seen.

Back of the escape is the conspiracy. The story is beginning to unfold itself, and while many details are lacking, persistent work by the police of several cities is beginning to develop that at least one man whose name has been brought into the Thaw case unpleasantly recently, has much to explain.

Although several lawyers have said that Thaw cannot be brought back to New York state if he is found in another state, District Attorney Edward A. Conner is so positive that he can have Thaw brought back that he has had an indictment brought against the insane fugitive and a warrant issued. The indictment is a blanket indictment and covers seven men, Thaw, Barnum, the hospital attendant who was on the gate Sunday morning and who is under arrest, Richard J. Butler, Eugene Duffy, Roger Thompson, Michael O'Keefe and Thomas Flood of New York. The charge is conspiracy to "prevent justice and to interfere with the administration of the law."

It now appears that all the five men mentioned in the escape and who had been staying at a hotel in the village for several days prior to the escape, registered under their right names. The most important of the five is Richard Butler, who bossed the men.

William Gordon, proprietor of the Holland house of Beacon, where the five men stopped, and several others positively identified a photograph of Richard J. Butler of New York, the man who has been president of the Longshoremen's union and was William Deverys' right hand man in ward politics, as a portrait of the Richard J. Butler who registered at the Holland last Friday and who was in one of the two cars in which Thaw made his escape.

Butler is said to be on intimate terms with Alfred Henry Lewis, magazine writer, a close friend of Thaw's. He has visited him in Matteawan; his connection with the Thaw case was fully aired in the examination into the charges against Dr. John Russell, formerly superintendent of the hospital for the insane here, an examination which resulted in the indictment and conviction of John Anhut, a New York lawyer. This would seem to establish a possible connection between Thaw and Butler, and it is along this line that the authorities are working.

The statement was made by one of the officials working on the case that two of the indicted men have been found and that they are in New York at the present time. They are Duffy and Flood. Flood is said to be a retired New York policeman. Detectives employed by Dutchess county are constantly trailing these men and would have arrested them if they had not received orders to hold off until the detectives get Butler.

Next to importance to Butler in the eyes of the authorities is Roger Thompson, who is thought to be one of Thaw's old friends and his social equal. It is believed he was drawn into the affair by his love of adventure and a desire to help his friend out of the institution. The worst fact that has been developed against Barnum so far is the fact that he has posed for years as a bachelor and he now admits he has a wife. She is now in a maternity hospital in New York. She gave birth to a boy a week ago. Barnum was paid $28 a month. His small wages and his concealed marriage are regarded as evidence that money would be appreciated by him, but nothing has so far turned up in the shape of proof that he was in the conspiracy.

Little Boy is Rescued in Time

Dr. Mayo's Treatment Saved a Child From Disease and Misery.

Rev. J. L. Reid of Hodgeville, Ky., writes telling of his son's case. The Rev. J. L. Reid is so pleased over the fact that his little son has been restored to health by the treatment of Dr. W. R. Mayo, 843 North Delaware street, Indianapolis, Ind., and he was written the following letter in the hope that it may lead some anxious person to a sure source of health.

Hodgeville, Ky., July 15, 1913.

Dr. Mayo:
My boy you treated is well, and there has not been a symptom of its return now for two years. He had tarrh and hay fever from the time he was 12 months old in a bad form. I tried all the doctors and patent medicines even to the infallible Hall's Sure Cure until I got discouraged and gave up. I was at home (Shelby Co., Ind.) and in Shelbyville in the Democrat office and inquired of you and what the people thought of your cure for chronic diseases. They said good things about you. So I sent for your remedy. The above statement is the result. Sir, I want to thank you with a God bless you for wisdom and skill.

Yours, REV. J. L. REID.

BIG TOURIST STEAMER SENT TO THE BOTTOM

A Score of Tourists Drowned Near Juneau.

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 19.—In three minutes after the $400,000 steamer, the State of California, struck an uncharted rock in bay near here, a score or more persons went to watery graves. As no records were saved it is impossible to give out a definite and correct list of the passengers who perished. Among the passengers known to be dead are: Mrs. Nellie Ward, Seattle, wife of Edward S. Ward, assistant manager of the Pacific Coast Steamship company; Miss Lillian B. Ward, daughter of Mr. Ward, who died after being taken on a raft.

The State of California had been plying temporarily on the southeastern Alaska run during the Spokane tourist season. Regular travel to Skagway is very heavy now because of the Shushanna gold stampede.

The State of California was an iron steamer of 3,276 gross tons built at Philadelphia in 1878 and carried a crew of seventy-eight men. On account of her long service between Puget sound and San Francisco in the passenger trade, she was one of the best known vessels in the west.

CUT INITIALS ON LIVE HOGS.

Shocking Cruelties Perpetrated on Animals in Chicago Stock Yards.

Cruelties which animals at the stock yards in Chicago are forced to undergo are to be made the subject of an investigation by Hugo Krause, secretary of the Anti-cruelty society of that city. Reports which have been received at headquarters of the society state that the most flagrant abuse is the practice of cutting initials on the back of a live hog. This is done, according to the report, by "cripple contractors" who purchase animals disabled in transit.

Krause also cites instances of hundreds of hogs dying for lack of water, of live hogs being dumped into scalding tanks and of hogs dressed so rapidly that they are chops and sausages before they are yet dead.

VEVAY'S INVASION BY HOMECOMERS

Hundreds Gather to Celebrate Centennial.

PROGRAM COVERS THE WEEK

With Nearly Every State in the Union Represented in the Assemblage of "Backhomers" Gathered For the Celebration of the Hundredth Anniversary of Founding of Old Town, Vevay Is Having One Mighty Good Time.

Vevay, Ind., Aug. 19.—With practically every state in the Union represented in the assemblage which has gathered here, Vevay yesterday began the week's celebration in honor of her centennial. The address of welcome was delivered by Mayor Danner and responded to by Prof. C. R. Melcher of Lexington, Ky. Others on the day's program were Miss Mary A. Rouse of Lake Providence, La., Mrs. S. O. Pleasant, Mrs. W. W. Fry and Mrs. Dr. L. M. Bear and Prof. Clarence Stevens of Mt Vernon, Ja.

Messages were read from scores of former residents, who were prevented from attending. The city is gayly decorated and the week is given over to the celebration.

John Francis Dufour and his little band of Swiss emigrants laid out the city in 1813, while Indiana was yet a territory. Many descendants of the original Swiss settlers were in the audience today.

CORONER REVEALS TRAGEDY

The Death of Prof. Marion Was Due to Suicide.

Culver, Ind., Aug. 19.—It develops that Prof. Henry Marion, for many years professor of modern languages in the United States naval academy at Annapolis, who was the official interpreter of the party that brought back the body of John Paul Jones from France to his country and whose recent death here was telegraphed to the newspapers of the country as resulting from natural causes, was a suicide.

The return of the coroner shows that a revolver was the weapon used and that death resulted instantly when Prof. Marion fired a bullet into his brain last Thursday. When he came to Culver, where the tragedy took place, it was apparent that he was suffering from despondency and a close watch was kept on him.

In some manner he obtained possession of a revolver, and when found he was dead with a bullet hole in his head. It is said a sunstroke received a number of months ago produced temporary derangement.

Salem's Mayor Predicts Flying Engines and Horse Carts.

A flying machine fire department for Salem, Mass., was recently predicted by John F. Hurley, mayor of that city. Fire engines, hooks and ladders, horse wagons and aerial water towers of the future will go through the air on the wings of aeroplanes instead of using the city streets, according to Hurley's ideas.

"I intend to eliminate horses from Salem, so far as the city service goes," said Mayor Hurley. "Of course, if private individuals want to keep a few of them for driving purposes that is all right, but the death knell of the horses has been sounded so far as commercial life is concerned. In time all this work, which is about to be done by motor vehicles, will be done by flying machines. We are going to have flying machine fire engines, flying machine garbage wagons, etc."

MODEL OF UNSINKABLE SHIP SHOWN IN WALES.

Water Tight Belting the Secret of Craft's Remarkable Buoyancy.

Remarkable experiments with the model of an unsinkable ship are described in a letter to the London Times by John Rees, harbor superintendent at Llanelli, Wales. The model, four feet in length, nine inches wide and scaled to represent a steamboat 410 feet long and 72 wide, drawing 21 feet, was loaded through five hatchways with copper ore down to the Pimms mark, and Mr. Rees was invited to do what he liked with it.

He tilted the vessel sideways into water filled the whole interior to the deck level; then he let go. She immediately righted herself and floated easily and buoyantly, with the deck just above the water level.

Mr. Rees pressed her well down under the water and then let go. She immediately bobbed up to the surface and floated exactly as before. With her whole cargo shifted and still full of water, she had a corresponding list, but still three-quarters of her deck was well out of water.

This floating power is obtained by such a plan of construction as to allow water tight belting being built outward and downward from the deck level. It is absorbed in the ship's form, does not extend to the water level, and, following the lines of the ship, is roughly triangular in section. There is thus apparently no interference with speed, so far as water contact with the hull is concerned, nor does it interfere with cargo carrying, for the vessel to all intents and purposes is an ordinary sized and shaped one.

The inside belting being divided into water tight compartments, if any portion of it is injured owing to a collision there is only a loss of floating power corresponding to the section crushed in and rendered useless.

The inventor has been working on his idea for twenty years. He says that the added cost of construction to embody his idea is about 5 per cent.

Parcel Post.

That the express companies have fallen on parlous times is shown by a number of things other than the stock market. The introduction of parcel post cut down the small-package business of the companies 30 per cent, according to their own statement, but recently changes have been made which will take much more than that proportion. One of these changes is the C. O. D. system. For a fee of 10 cents the government now collects for goods and returns the money. This is less than the old C. O. D. fee of the companies. Since this system went into effect a few weeks ago there has been a tremendous increase in the parcel post business from city distributors to country customers, though it was announced as a special facility for farmers, to aid them to work up trade with city consumers. Instead of 30 per cent this system will probably take 50 per cent of the small-package business, if not more. The department also insures up to $50 for a fee of 8 cents. All this extra revenue comes with scarcely any increased expense.

The companies were scarcely in a position to object to these new facilities, but they did object, through senators and representatives, to the proposed increase of weights to 20 pounds. That increase would take away a large quantity of their best paying business. It costs practically no more to handle 20 pounds than 11 pounds, but the revenue is larger. It is the best-paying business of the package kind, and the postmaster general wants the government to have it. It is scarcely conceivable that congress will dare to interfere in this matter, where it is so palpably a revenue getting measure, and the change in weights will probably go into effect January 1. With all these new facilities the parcel post should handle the bulk of the small-package business under 20 pounds in weight.

On top of all this the new order of the Interstate Commerce Commission reducing express rates by a total of $25,000,000 a year, as figured on last year's business, comes as a finishing touch. The reduction will not be so much as that, because every package taken away by the parcel post lessens the total reduction caused by lower rates, but that is cold comfort. The companies would rather handle the business at the new rate than lose it entirely. According to an announcement just made by the president of the Texas Farmers' Union, an arrangement has been made with one of the express companies to act as sales agent between farmers and city customers. The farmers are to ship the goods to the company and the latter will sell them and remit the proceeds, retaining only the express charge and collection fee. This effort to compete with the parcel post in the rural trade shows the urgency of the matter. Its success will depend upon all the elements of the business, which include getting the packages started as well as delivering them, in the former of which the post has the advantage. It is plainly to be seen that the parcel post will soon develop into the parcel carrying system of the country, if influences at work can prevent any placing obstacles in the way of its development.

Half Cocked.

John J. Keegan of Indianapolis has again exploded before the fuse was well lighted. He resigned his seat in the last legislature because the legislature would not agree with him as to an eight hour law for women. He later recanted and accepted his seat again. Last night at a meeting of Indiana interurban trainmen and a committee from the Indianapolis trade union, Keegan bitterly attacked the traction lines of Indiana and declared that a fatal accident on the Indianapolis & Cincinnati line Saturday was due to the employment of a "green" man as motorman to take the place of a man who had been discharged for joining the union.

This is characteristic of our friend Keegan. He is an artist with the fiery speeches, but it is his wont to go off half-cocked. He may have been sincere in what he believed, but before making such absurd statements he should at least have investigated to find whether his charges were based on truth.

Earl Moore, who was motorman on the I. & C. car Saturday that struck an automobile, injured the driver and killed a horse on the Shelbyville division, has been in the employ of the I. & C. for seven years. He was not a "green" man, as charged by Keegan. His work as motorman was in every way lawful because the new statute provides that a motorman shall at least have been in the employ of the interurban company at least a year as a trainman before he shall be entrusted with a car on a run.

Although first employed as a conductor, Earl Moore has acted as motorman on many occasions. The I. & C., in order to prepare for emergencies, has trainmen ready to act in either the capacity of a conductor or motorman. Earl Moore has acted as motorman of cars before last Saturday.

The error is due to a mistake credited to the Shelbyville correspondent of the Indianapolis News, who Saturday sent a dispatch to the News that Motorman Moore of the ill-fated car was a "green" man employed to take the run of Jordan, the new president of the trainmen's union who was discharged when he presented grievances to the I. & C.

It is barely possible that some of Jordan's friends gave out this information to discredit the traction company and to bolster the position of Jordan. Wherever it came from, it was false.

So the assertions of Mr. Keegan fall flat, and on their face are unjust and unfair. The same tactics employed against any union would arouse the innermost ire of Mr. Keegan. It is to be hoped that he will realize his mistake and take it all back.

PURE POLITICS.

(Newcastle Courier.)

Refusing to appear before the senate lobby investigating committee because three of its five members had publicly announced an adverse decision, and being denied a hearing by the house committee on the plea that it would be discourteous to the senate committee to take his evidence under the circumstances, Hon. James E. Watson is deprived of any defense against the accusations of Mulhall, except such statements as he can get before the country of his own account. Of course the scheme of which Mr. Watson is the victim is wholly political. To plaster his reputation with mud and let it go at that has been the plain purpose of the committee from the beginning. As played it was not only mean and unfair, but distasteful and dishonest.

Cora Heavlin, formerly Cora Fields, was tried on two affidavits charging assault and battery on the son and daughter of Cora B. Clifford in Squire Kratzer's court. She was fined one dollar and costs on the charge of striking the girl, and was released as to the other charge. The fine and costs in one case amounted to $13.70.

Mrs. Heavlin said that the Clifford girl and her brother came into the yard and provoked her. She denied hitting either one of them. A number of other witnesses, including the mother of the children who filed the affidavit, swore that the trouble took place on the sidewalk and that Mrs. Heavlin was the aggressor. Mrs. Heavlin said after the trial she proposed to file a provoke charge.

RELATED NEWS OF ELECTRIC STORM

Lightning Played Havoc in Some Parts of Rush County, Striking Houses and Stock.

WAS NOT MUCH HEAVY LOSS

Belated news of the electrical storm of Saturday night reached Rushville today. It was impossible to reach many places Sunday or Monday by telephone because so many lines were put out of commission by electricity.

Lightning struck and killed a cow belonging to Frank Martin of near Raleigh. The cow was valued at eighty dollars. Lightning struck the home of Tom Merritt near Raleigh and caused considerable damage. One corner of the house was torn away and eight window panes were shattered. The members of the family were badly shocked, especially Mrs. Merritt, who has not fully recovered.

Lightning struck a horse belonging to Henry Gahimer, living in the western part of the county near Blue Ridge. The horse's leg was fractured and it was necessary to kill it. The home of Ed Spencer five miles northeast of Manilla, was fired by lightning, but neighbors succeeded in saving the house. A bolt struck the home of John W. Zike two miles north of Manilla. A floor in one of the rooms was caved in, but the house did not catch on fire.

Society News

Mr. and Mrs. Orie Smith entertained at dinner Sunday Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lambert and Miss Dorothy Lambert of Connorsville, Mr. and Mrs. William Smith of Glenwood, Miss Minnie Disselkoen and Orrin Walker of Rushville.

There was a large attendance at the entertainment given by Mrs. Clarence Walden of Rushville, assisted by Mrs. Will Burton of Franklin at Hopewell church, Friday night, says the Franklin Star.

The numbers on the program which consisted of solos, readings and monologues were especially well given.

The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Young Women's Bible class.

A very pretty and impressive wedding occurred Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. N. Sweet in North Willow street, when their daughter, Olive Eulalia, became the wife of Clarence Raymond Bailey, a prosperous young farmer of Bentonville, Ind. The Rev. Cyrus Yocom of the Christian church officiated. Miss Margaret Laughlin sang "I Love You Truly" and A. M. Taylor sang two solos. Mrs. A. M. Taylor played the wedding march, accompanied by her daughter May on the violin. The bridal party descended the stairs promptly at 4 o'clock, with Rev. Mr. Yocom leading, followed by Miss Helen Thomas of Rushville who strewed rose petals in the path of the party. Next came Miss Ari Jean Hart of Connorsville, carrying the ring in a basket. Immediately after the ceremony refreshments of ice cream, cake, coffee and mints were served. The color scheme, pink and white, predominated in the decorations and favors of bells and hearts were given.

The guests from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey and daughter Ethel of Bentonville, Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson and daughter Irene of Dublin, Mr. and Mrs. Tennis Hart and daughter Ari Jean, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Wilson, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Bailey of Connorsville, Mr. and Mrs. William Matthew, Mr. and Mrs. George Sweet and son Guy and Mrs. Richard Sweet and son Carl of Raleigh, Clyde Kincaid of Elwood and Miss Margaret Laughlin of Falmouth. Numerous valuable presents were received.

Amusements

The Princess theater offers a drama and a comedy tonight "A Rose of May" is a modern romance that is replete with dramatic situations. It is a Selig production. The other picture, "The Rube and the Boob," is a rural comedy produced by the Kalem company. Miss Ruth Roland has the leading part. Tomorrow night this theater will present the best two-reel comedy ever produced. It is entitled "The Regiment of Two." The stellar roles will be taken by Edith Story, E. K. Lincoln and Sidney Drew.

The Portola will show a two reel feature tonight, "The Governors Double" which has a very beautiful setting. The last picture will be Pathes Weekly number 24 which contains some of the world's latest events. The Portola was in charge of the Tri Kappas last night and played to large houses.

"The Spell," a gripping Powers drama, will be one of the reels at the Palace theater this evening. "Who's in the Box?" is the title of the other picture. It is a comedy that is real funny in which Pearl White has the first part. The Palace announces a "three-reel-thriller" in "The Flying Circus" for tomorrow night.

REX BEACH ADVENTURE STORIES

"Bitter Root" Billings, Arbiter

By REX BEACH

Copyright by McClure, Phillips & Co.

BILLINGS rode in from the Junction about dusk and ate his supper in silence. He'd been east for sixty days, and, although there lurked about him the hint of unwanted ventures, etiquette forbade its mention. You see, in our country that which a man gives voluntarily is oftentimes later dissected in smoky bunk houses or roughly handled round flickering campfires, but the privacies he guards are inviolate. Curiosity isn't exactly a lost art, but its practice isn't popular nor hygienic.

Later I found him meditatively whittling out on the porch, and at the moment seemed propitious I inquired adroitly, "Did you have a good time in Chicago, 'Bitter Root?'"

"Bully," said he, relapsing into weighty absorption.

"What'd you do?" I inquired, with almost the certainty of appearing insistent.

"Don't you never read the papers?" he inquired, with such evident compassion that "Kink" Martin and the other boys snickered. This from "Bitter Root," who scorns literature outside of the "Arkansas Printing," as he terms the illustrations!

"Guess I'll have to show you my press notices," and from a hip pocket he produced a fat bundle of clippings in a rubber band. These he displayed jealously, and I stared agape, for they were front pages of great metropolitan dailies, marred with red and black scare heads, in which I glimpsed the words, "Billings, of Montana," "Bitter Root" on Arbitration," "A Lochinvar Out of the West" and other things as puzzling.

"Press notices?" echoed "Kink" scornfully. "Wouldn't that rope you?"

He talks like Big Ike that went with the Wild West show. When a puissant gets so lazy he can't earn a living by the sweat of his pony he grows his hair, goes on the stage busting glass balls with shot cartridges and talks about "press notices." Let's see 'em, Billings. You pinch 'em as close to your stummick as though you held cards in a strange poker game."

"Well, I have set in a strange game, amongst aliens," said Billings, disregarding the request, "and I've held the high cards; also I've drawn out with honors. I've sailed the medium high seas with mutiny in the stokehole. I've changed the laws of labor, politics and municipal economies. I went out of God's country right into the heart of the decaying east, and by the application of a running noose in a hemp rope I strangled oppression and put 8,000 men to work." He paused ponderously. "I'm an arbitrator!"

"The deuce you are!" indignantly cried "Reddy," the cook. "Who says so?"

"Reddy" isn't up in syntax, and his unreasoning loyalty to Billings is an established fact of such standing that his remarks afford no conjecture.

"Yes; I've cut out the 'nation's peril' and the 'crying evil' good and strong, walking out from the stinks of the Union stockyards of Chicago into the limelight of publicity via the 'drunk and disorderly' route."

"You see I got those ten carloads of steers into the city all right, but I was so blame busy spattering through the tracked up wastes of the cow pens and inhaling the sewer gas of the west side that I never got to see a newspaper. If I'd 'a' read one, here's what I'd 'a' found—namely, the greatest, stubbornest, rioting strike ever known, which means a heap for Chicago, she being the wet nurse of labor trouble."

"The whole river front was tied up. Nary a steamer had whistled inside the six mile crib for two weeks, and 8,000 men was out. There was holdups and blood shedding and picketing, which last is an alias for assault with intents, and altogether it was a prime place for a cowman on a quiet vacation—just homelike and natural."

"It was at this point that I enters, bursting out of the smoke of the stockyards, all sweet and beautiful, like the gentle heroin in the play as she walks through the curtains at the back of the stage."

"Now, you know there's a heap of difference between the stockyards and Chicago—it's just like coming from Arkansas over into the United States."

"Well, soon as I sold the stock I hit for the lake front and began to ground sluice the coal dust off of my palate."

"I was busy working my booze hydraulic when I see an arid appearing pilgrim alongside looking thirsty as an alkali flat."

"Get in," says I, giving the distress signal so that the windows rattled and reached for my bolster. I'd 'a' got them both, only the gun caught in my suspender. You see, not anticipating any live bird shoot, I'd put it inside my pants band, under my vest, for appearances. A 45 is like fresh air to a drowning man—generally has to be drawn in haste—and neither one shouldn't be mislaid. I got her out at last and on the bar and smelted of his anger. He seemed to just soak it up both ways—regular human blotter.

"You lap it up like a man," says I—like a cowman full grown. Ever been west?

"Nope," says he; "born here."

"Well, I'm a stranger," says I, out absorbing such beauties of architecture and free lunch as offers along the line. If I ain't keeping you up I'd be glad of your company."

"I'm your assistant lunch buster," says he, and in the course of things he further explained that he was a tugboat fireman out on a strike, giving me the following information about the tieup: "It all come up over a dose of dyspepsia."

"Back up," interrupted "Kink," squirming. "Are you plumb bug? Get together. You're certainly the Raving Kid. Ye must have stone bruised your heel and got concession of the brain."

"Old man Badrich of the Badrich Transportation company has it terrible. It lands on his solar every morning about 9 o'clock, getting worse steady, and reaches perihelion along about 11. He can tell the time of day by taste. One morning when his mouth felt like about 10:45 in comes a committee from Firemen and Engineers' local No. 21 with a demand for more wages, prodding him with the intimation that if he didn't ante they'd tie up all his boats."

"I s'pose a teaspoonful of baking soda, assimilated internally around the environments of his appendix, would have spared the strike and cheated me out of being a hero. As the poet might have said, 'Upon such slender pegs is this our greatness hung.'"

"Oh, Gawd!" exclaimed Mullins plausibly.

"Anyhow, the bitterness in the old man's inner tubes shewed in the bile of his answer, and he told 'em if they wanted more money he'd give 'em a chance to earn it—they could work nights as well as days. He intimated further that they'd ought to be satisfied with their wages, as they'd undoubtedly follow the same line of business in the next world and wouldn't get a cent for feeding the fires neither."

"Next morning the strike was called, and the guy that breathed treachery and walkouts was one 'Oily' Heegan, further submerged under the titles of president of the Federation of Fresh Water Firemen; also chairman of the United Water Front Workmen, which last takes in everything doing business along the river except the wharf rats and typhoid germs, and it's with the disreputableness of this party that I infected myself to the detriment of labor and the triumph of the law."

"D. O'Hara Heegan is an able man, and inside of a week he'd spread the strike till it was the cleanest, dirtiest tieup ever known. The hospitals and morgues was full of nonunion men, but the river was empty all right. Yes; he had a perswading method of arbitration quite convincing to the most calloused, involving the laying on of the lead pipe."

"Things got to be pretty fierce by and by, for they had the police baffle, and disturbances got plenty than the casualties at a butchers' picnic. The strikers got hungry, too, finally, because the principles of unionism is like a rash on your mechanic, skin deep—inside, his gastrics works three shifts a day even if his outside is idle and steaming with socialism."

"Hold on there," says I, ignorant of the involutions of justice. "I guess I've got the bulge on you this time. They beat you to me, Judge. I ain't got a cent. You can go through me and be welcome to half you find. I'll mail you ten when I get home though, honest."

"That the audience giggled, and the judge says:

"Your humor doesn't appeal to me, Mr. Billings. Of course you have the privilege of working it out. Oh, glory, the 'privilege'!"

Heegan nodded at this, and I realized what I was against.

blazed away just a second after they dodged around the corner; then I hit the trail after 'em, letting go a few sky shots and getting a ghost dance holler off my stummick that had been troubling me. The wallop on the head made me dizzy, though, and I zigzagged awful, tacking out of the alley right into a policeman.

"Whee!" says I in joy, for he had Murdock safe by the bits, bucking considerble.

"Stan' aside and le'mme 'eckroo 'im," says I. I threw the gun on him, and the crowd dodged it into all the doorways and windows convenient, but I was so weakminded in the knees I stumbled over the curb and fell down.

"Next thing I knew we was all bouncing over the cobblestones in a patrol wagon.

"Well, in the morning I told my story to the judge, plain and unvarnished; then Murdock takes the stand and busts into song, claiming that he was coming through the alley toward Clark street when I staggered out back of a saloon and commenced to shoot at him. He says I was drunk and fanned out, me shooting at him with every jump. He had proof, he said, and he called for the president of his union, Mr. Heegan. At the name all the loafers and stew bums in the courtroom stomped and said, 'Hear, hear!' while up steps this Napoleon of the hooligans.

"Sure, he knew Mr. Murdock, had known him for years, and he was perfectly reliable and honest. As to his robbing me, it was preposterous, because he himself was at the other end of the alley and saw the whole thing, just as Mr. Murdock related it.

"I jumps up. 'You're a liar, Heegan. I was buying booze for the two of you,' but a policeman nailed me, choking off my rhetorics. Mr. Heegan leans over and whispers to the judge, while I got chilblains along my spine."

"Look here, kind judge," says I, real winning and genteel, "this man is so good at explaining things away, ask him to talk off this bump over my ear. I surely didn't get a buggy spoke and laminate myself on the nut."

"That'll do," says the judge. "Mr. Clerk, $10 and costs. Charge, drunk and disorderly. Next!"

"Hold on there," says I, ignorant of the involutions of justice. "I guess I've got the bulge on you this time. They beat you to me, Judge. I ain't got a cent. You can go through me and be welcome to half you find. I'll mail you ten when I get home though, honest."

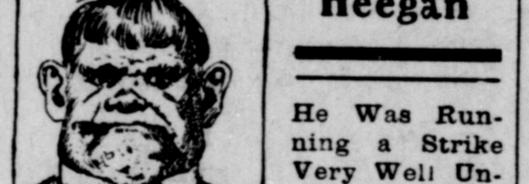

"At that the audience giggled, and the judge says:

"Your humor doesn't appeal to me, Mr. Billings. Of course you have the privilege of working it out. Oh, glory, the 'privilege'!"

Heegan nodded at this, and I realized what I was against.

ANCIENT ECUADOR HAD ITS DENTISTS

Skulls 1,000 Years Old Found
With Gold Teeth.

WORK SHOWS HIGH SKILL.

Professor Saville of Columbia University Returns From Exploring Trip In Land of the Incas With Some Remarkable Examples of Pottery Work of Former Civilization.

Professor Marshall Howard Saville, professor of American archaeology in Columbia university, who has been making extensive excavations in the state of Esmeralda, Ecuador, who lately returned to the United States, tells of discoveries that, among other things, seem to prove that dentistry of a high order was practiced in the Inca country more than 1,000 years ago.

"This is the end of my twenty-second trip of exploration in the tropics," said Professor Saville, "and this time I did all of the work. I am glad to say the trip has been a most successful one in every respect. I managed to get along very well in places that are seldom visited by man. I found a number of human-skulls in a splendid state of preservation. The teeth were in perfectly even rows.

"Sure, he knew Mr. Murdock, had known him for years, and he was perfectly reliable and honest. As to his robbing me, it was preposterous, because he himself was at the other end of the alley and saw the whole thing, just as Mr. Murdock related it.

JOHN LIND.

Former Governor of Minnesota
Sent to Mexico by President.

AS PERNICIOUS FOREIGNERS

It is Thus That Huerta Proposes to Treat Lind and Hale.

El Paso, Tex., Aug. 19.—Local Mexicans in close touch with the Huerta administration say that Provisional President Huerta already has decided to expel John Lind and Dr. William Bayard Hale from Mexico under Article 33 of the Mexican constitution applying to pernicious foreigners. They declare that they have information that both will be escorted from the country within twelve hours, and that Huerta has determined to ignore the United States government until it accords him recognition and to accept no further communications from it.

There is general satisfaction among administration Mexicans here over the failure of Lind's mission.

DIGGS ON THE STAND IN HIS OWN BEHALF

Defense Begun In White Slave Trial.

San Francisco, Aug. 19.—An attorney for Maury Diggs, R. G. Ramsey, was fined $100 for assaulting a newspaper camera man when the photographer snapped Diggs and his wife and young Caminetti in the street.

When the white slave trial was resumed this morning Diggs was the first witness called. He will be followed by his wife, and then by Drew Caminetti and his wife. This will practically complete the case for the defense.

Diggs gave his account of the Reno trip and of his acquaintanceship with both girls before the elopement. Mrs. Diggs will testify she heard of her husband's actions with Miss Warrington and had complained to Diggs's father about them. She will also swear she threatened legal proceedings against both the Warrington girl and Diggs.

Caminetti will tell of his experiences with Miss Norris, both before and during the trip to Reno. Mrs. Caminetti will testify she knew of her husband's relations with the Norris girl and she threatened proceedings against him and the girl.

The stand taken by Diggs and Caminetti will be that they were so alarmed lest action be brought against not only themselves but the girls also, that they decided all four should flee to avoid a scandal.

Caminetti's case, which came up before Judge Dooling today, was continued until the Diggs trial is concluded.

HUERTA REJECTS WILSON PROFFER

Curt Declination Comes From Mexico City.

OUTPLAYED UNITED STATES

By Gaining Consent of President Wilson to Withhold Terms of Proposition Looking to Mediation, Huerta Kept From World Powers Meaning of President's Move Until He Was in a Position to Turn It Down.

Mexico City, Aug. 19.—John Lind, special representative of President Wilson, said he had conferred with Huerta for two hours last night, and that the conference was of the most cordial kind. He declared nothing has reached him, written or verbal, which could be construed as an ultimatum regarding recognition of the Mexican government.

Washington, Aug. 19.—News has come from Mexico City through unofficial channels that President Huerta had served notice that he would give the United States twelve hours to recognize the Huerta government. Such action would amount to an ultimatum resulting in severing of diplomatic relations. At the White House it was announced that no such message had been conveyed to this government. There have been threats before this of such a course by the Mexican president. The United States government has of course refused to recognize Huerta's representatives in Washington, and Huerta's followers contend that similar treatment for American representatives in Mexico City would be merely putting our diplomatic relations on equal terms.

Washington, Aug. 19.—President Huerta has turned down flatly the plan which President Wilson had evolved for the peaceful settlement of Mexican difficulties. In his answer to the American note which has been forwarded to Washington, Huerta declares that he will not consider mediation of Mexican affairs by any foreign power.

This leaves President Wilson as far as ever from the goal toward which he had been striving and throws him back upon his resources to create some new policy for bringing peace to Mexico and protection to American interests there as an alternative to armed intervention by the United States. The president considered the Mexican reply at a long conference with Secretary Bryan and Counsellor John Bassett Moore. It can be said definitely that he is not considering armed intervention as the next step by this government.

There are good reasons for believing that the president will make an effort to procure the withdrawal of Huerta's refusal before giving up the arbitration idea. In this he may fall back on two courses, according to those who followed his lines of thought closely throughout the Mexican crisis. He may inform the governments of the world of the effort he has made to settle Mexican affairs, urge all Americans to withdraw from Mexico and permit the indiscriminate shipment of arms and munitions to the federal and revolutionists in the hope that they may be able to work out their own salvation. The more general belief here, though, is that for a time at least the president will continue the negotiations with Huerta through John Lind and the American embassy in Mexico City, in the hope of arriving at some method for establishing order peacefully.

It is recognized that the president has lost a tactical advantage in not having made public the American note at the time it was communicated to Huerta. This was the president's original plan and announcement of it was made at the time former Governor Lind was dispatched to Mexico. The president realized that having published to the world the text of the appeal he made to Huerta to consent to mediation, he would have had the strong moral support of the powers for his proposal pending a decision by Huerta. It is likely that had this step been taken a pressure would have been exerted on the Mexican president from many parts of the world.

Huerta, though, apparently outplayed the United States by depriving her of this advantage. He requested that President Wilson withhold the publication of the note until it could be pondered over at Mexico City, and asked that his permission be obtained before the note was given out. The president agreed to this and the result this agreement by the president is that Huerta was enabled to give a brief consideration to the American note, untroubled by any pressure, and then to send his refusal to Washington.

The tone of the note which Huerta's minister of foreign affairs, Senor Gamboa, placed in the hands of Charge O'Shaughnessy at the American embassy in Mexico City is curt and positive. It represents partly, according to the belief held here, an effort on the part of the military ruler of the Mexican republic to unify the sentiment of Mexicans behind his leadership as against outside interference, toward which there is an inherent hatred in Mexican minds.

on suspicion. Thaw is held as a fugitive from justice.

The man supposed to be Thaw was really arrested in the village of Hermenetilde-Garford, according to the police. Word was sent to Matteawan, N. Y., and the authorities at the insane hospital there replied immediately, asking the man be held.

The police think their prisoner took the train at Portland, Me. His movements that attracted attention on the train were described to the local police by Sheriff Kelsey in asking for the man's arrest. Kelsey said that while bound for his home in Colebrook, N. H., on the north bound train, he heard a man sitting opposite him inquire of another in the seat at his rear where the county seat of the county through which they were passing was situated. The man replied that he did not know, but added, pointing to Kelsey, "that man across the aisle might tell you. He's the sheriff."

Kelsey turned to look at the stranger and said he recognized Thaw at once from the pictures he had seen of him. He explained that they were in Coos county, and that the county seat was Lancaster. The seeker for information noticed that the sheriff eyed him closely and finally said:

"You don't know who I am?"

"Well," answered the sheriff, "I could make a pretty good guess that you're Harry Thaw."

"You're right," said the stranger, "but you are not interested in me. I have committed no crime."

"I can not be extradited, and it would be a waste of time for you to interfere with me. I am going abroad and will sail from Canada."

WANTS TO PLAY RUSHVILLE

The Arlington Red Sox won from the Indianapolis Naps Sunday, 3 to 2, and now the manager, Charles Kennedy, is demanding a game with Rushville. The Red Sox battery, Alexander and Arms, was next to invincible.

Recently there was mention in the News of William Geren's suit for divorce from his wife, and of his petition for custody of his three small children, which are with him, having been abandoned, as was he, by their mother, says the Connersville News.

Her disappearance, and the simultaneous disappearance of June Brooks, of Rushville, is familiar to all the friends of the family. Mr. Geren talked with a representative of the News today, and asked that it be stated that he sued also for custody of the little babe, which his wife took with her when she disappeared. Mr. Geren further says he has by no means abandoned the search for his wife and her illicit lover but will continue to seek them.

He especially wishes to land the man in prison.

JOHN J. KEEGAN ATTACKS I. & C.

lis Star. He said most of the traction company employes are now members of the organization.

Frank T Hawley, former president of the Switchmen's Union; William Dobson, international secretary of the Bricklayers' union, and M. L. Clawson, an attorney, spoke in the same vein. Keegan made a bitter attack on the traction officials, and on Superintendent of Police Hyland.

After listening to the speeches the gathering, which included a number of interurban employes, unanimously adopted resolutions which had been prepared in advance by a committee composed of Albert S. Lowry, B. F. Herten, Carl Ott, W. J. Pfleger, Fred Saylor and William H. Park.

The resolutions, after reciting a long list of grievances, ask the traction companies to meet a committee of employes with a view to hearing both sides of the controversy and adjusting their differences.

Frank Miller, vice president of the Central Labor Union, offered a motion which was adopted requiring the executive board and organization committee to work with the union in effecting an organization. Albert Lowry, retiring president of the Central Labor Union, presided at the meeting.

FLATROCK HERE
TWICE THIS WEEK

Unbeaten Aggregation Will Play the Christians Wednesday and the Methodists Saturday.

BOTH WANT TO BEAT THEM

Fans who have been attending the Sunday school league ball games will have an opportunity to see the Big Flatrock Christian team in action twice this week. The stalwart batting boys from down in the country will take on the Christians Wednesday and the Methodists Saturday.

The Flatrock bunch hasn't been whipped yet, and the team which does it will have to go some. Flatrock has played only four games this season, but it has won every one of them handily. Only recently Flatrock completed the circuit and has defeated every other team in the league. It's the ambition of each of the three aggregations to take the hitters into camp and every game with Flatrock is bound to be a good one.

The Habit of Systematic Saving

Should be moulded into a child's life the same as any other essential and proper training.

It is important that a child have a Savings Bank Account in his own name and be taught to build it up regularly by his own savings, however small.

We help our young depositors in every way possible, and are always glad to explain to them proper methods of business.
